SUBJECT: Questions on NIC ADP Policy and Status

I'm still confused on where we are and where we are headed by when on NIC ADP support. Could you give me a written report on the following?

1. What NIC offices (officers) have what kinds of terminals and who is using them? What NIC offices (officers) have access to SAFE/AIM? What NIC offices (officers) can communicate with me (and with each other) over Wang?
2. Is it currently a NIC goal that all NIC offices/officers be able to communicate via some system (e.g., AIM) electronically with the rest of NIC? If not, why not? If so, when will this be achieved? What system?
3. Is it currently a NIC goal that all NIC offices/officers acquire the capability to receive their cable mail electronically in addition to hard copy? Rather than hard copy? If not, why not? If so, when?
4. When will the first Intell work stations arrive in the NIC? Who will get them? Are all NICers scheduled eventually to get Intell terminals? If not, why not? If so, when?
5. Has any NIC leadership in the past tried to define a uniform set of NIC ADP policies and goals?

Please get me such answers as you can by 8 July.
